“ Uncle Carl went to be with the Lord just before Christmas. I learned soooooo much from this man! He was a godly man--faithful, kind, and gentle as can be. Yet, he worked hard. He taught me more than a city girl wanted to know about a dairy farm--but he never pressed me to do more than I wanted. He taught me all about the milk I loved--from tasting before it went on the truck to explaining the whole process.

But, much more than that.....he cared for us --- really loved us. He taught me about working hard and modeled his love for God every day.

He lived his faith--even when things didn't work out how he wanted. That lesson has stuck with me throughout my life and I am so grateful that he showed me to not give up or lose hope in the hard times. When God allows hard times, He is just making you stronger and closer to Him. I am so happy that Uncle Carl gets to be with Jesus and Aunt Wanda now.

If you don't know Jesus and the reason for the season, please pick up a Bible and read the book of John. I love you Uncle Carl! Tears are streaming down my face and I am so excited your journey is complete!

Doug and I are saddened that we couldn't attend the funeral today. Praying for the whole family.
