“ Aunt Dorothy was a really beautiful person inside and out. Memories of when I was a kid and we lived in Detroit and once every month or so my parents would go to Bad Axe for a week -end visit. I loved when they picked Uncle Henry and Aunt Dorothy's farm to visit. She was always cooking in the kitchen and joking around with Uncle Henry. Was one of my happiest memories. She never forgot my Birthday, Christmas, Easter, and sent letters several times a year to keep me up on what was happening. Uncle Henry was my Godfather, but she continued with the letters and cards even after my Mom, Dad and Uncle Henry were gone. I will miss her dearly and pray for her every day. I also came from the Elandt clan, it was like living in the "Leave It To Beaver" sitcom. Miss them all!

“ My fondest memories of Aunt Dorothy are when our whole family visited the Elandt's on the old farm on Sundays and listened to Uncle Henry and Aunt Dorothy tell one of their many stories of growing up in the 30s/40s and seeing that sparkle in Aunt Dorothy's eyes as she looked at Uncle Henry deliver another one of his great punch lines of his many funny stories. One day years later mom and I visited Aunt Dorothy and we were looking through some old pictures (something she loved to do) and came across one of Aunt Dorothy in a black bathing suit sitting on a rock where it must have been Wagner Park or some beach near Port Hope. I immediately said, Wow! no wonder Uncle Henry couldn't wait to marry you. What a looker! She could have been a pinup model for a some painting on the nose of a B-17 or B-24. Heck maybe she was and she just never told us. I know my family always loved our visits on those Sundays. The Dorothy and Henry Elandt family are second to none in my book. As parents they sure turned out a great family. I will miss you Aunt Dorothy. I wish we had just one more visit, but I guess that will have to wait. God bless you. Until we meet again. I love you,
David

“ Aunt Dorothy always had a smile. I will forever treasure listening to Uncle Henry's stories and analogies...No matter how many times she may have heard them, she always smiled and laughed as the rest of we're rolling on the floor, laughing til it hurt. That Eland family circle is now complete in Heaven!
Til we meet again Aunt Dorothy,

My sister Mary and I think alike. That is what I was thinking, Aunt Dorothy always tolerated and enjoyed Uncle Henry's stories even though she had heard them numerous times. Always room at the table for visiting relatives which we often did. God bless you and keep you Aunt Dorothy TIL we meet again.
